Introduction- Statement of Purpose
The Mayor’s Fund for Philadelphia (the Fund) and Philadelphia Parks & Recreation (PPR) are seeking a qualified professional firm to facilitate a program planning and standards revision process for PPR. As an outcome of the department’s recently completed strategic plan, the program-planning process and new program standards will increase the relevancy and quality of site-specific programming, allow for greater internal understanding of the department’s program and professional development resources, and provide more qualitative measurement and ongoing improvement of those offerings. The public may also benefit from the new standards and planning process, as the department will be able to communicate its offerings externally more easily.

Please note: The Fund and PPR have released three RFPs related to implementation of the PPR strategic plan. In addition to this Program Planning RFP, the Fund and PPR are seeking Maintenance/Operations and Customer Service consultancy services. The Fund and PPR will consider proposals that address more than one of the three strategic plan RFP opportunities. Should an applicant wish to respond to more than one RFP, the Fund and PPR expect that the budget and scope proposed reflect cost and work plan efficiencies, while also addressing each of the project’s requirements comprehensively.

Department Overview
The Mayor’s Fund for Philadelphia works in close partnership with the City of Philadelphia and private sector partners to develop and run initiatives that reflect Mayoral priorities and seek to improve the quality of life for all Philadelphians. The Fund will serve as the fiscal administrator for this contract opportunity. Philadelphia Parks & Recreation (PPR) will serve as the project manager for this effort on behalf of the Fund.

Philadelphia Parks & Recreation (PPR) advances the prosperity of the city and the progress of her people through intentional and sustained stewardship of nearly 10,200 acres of public land and waterways as well as through hundreds of safe, stimulating recreation, environmental and cultural centers. PPR promotes the well-being and growth of the city’s residents by connecting them to the natural world around them, to each other and to fun, physical and social opportunities. PPR is responsible for the upkeep of historically significant Philadelphia events and specialty venues, and works collaboratively with communities and organizations in leading capital projects and the introduction of inventive programming. Project Background
For most of its history, Philadelphia's parks, recreation centers, and playgrounds were managed by two separate city government departments: the Fairmount Park Commission, created in 1867, and the Philadelphia Department of Recreation, created in 1951. The 2010 merger of the two created Philadelphia Parks & Recreation (PPR), one of the largest urban park and recreation systems in the country. Citizens now enjoy vastly improved access and opportunity with hundreds of recreation facilities and approximately 10,200 acres of parkland throughout Philadelphia.
However, much has changed for Philadelphia Parks & Recreation since 2010. Chief among those changes are new mayoral and departmental leadership, as well as anticipated additional resources from Mayor Kenney's Rebuilding Community Infrastructure initiative (a.k.a. "Rebuild"), a plan to invest $500 million in Philadelphia's parks, recreation centers, and libraries. To manage these changes proactively and seize the opportunities they present, PPR identified the need for a robust, internal, operational plan with broadly defined goals whose reach and focus extend beyond traditional departmental structures.

In response to this need, PPR initiated a strategic planning process with lead consultants Studio Gang Architects in February 2017. The process was informed by more than a hundred staff interviews, dozens of site visits, a deep document review, and leadership workshops. The strategic plan's leadership also hosted focus groups with PPR staff from all divisions, union representatives, nonprofit partners, and the Commission on Parks and Recreation. Seven working groups composed of 90 staff members from across the department created the goals, objectives, and strategies to make the plan attainable, measurable, timely, and relevant. The plan—Our Path to 2020+—was finalized in February 2018. Among the plan's six goals was “Goal 2: Strengthening Our Core,” which states, “We will provide high quality programs that are relevant and accessible to all communities. We will continue our efforts to set new standards for programming and ensure those standards are met. Importantly, we will match our programs to local interests and needs by exploring and experimenting with leading-edge ideas developed in partnership with communities.”
